Capstone Title provides value, love to real estate transactions *Central Texas title company aims to bring more to transactions than just a deal

AUSTIN, Texas – When you think of a title company, you may think of transactions — not relationships. Capstone Title, a full-service, real estate title and closing services company in Austin, Texas, sees it differently. In fact, Capstone Title’s core values revolve all around love: They love being open and honest, love their team members and clients, love serving others, and love learning and growing.

They offer closing services for all varieties of commercial and residential real estate, focusing on personalized services and building a community with their clients. They aim to actually teach clients about real estate transactions, and help them reach their goals in the best way possible. Led by experienced attorneys Brad Compere and Billy Mullens, along with Texas Representative Eddie Rodriguez, the Capstone Title team provides real value and love to real estate transactions across central Texas.

“Capstone Title is a great company made up of great people. They are kind, courteous and respectful, and love their team and their clients,” says Capstone Title CEO and President Brad Compere. “They love the work they do because they are helping people and making a difference in their lives. They make a contribution to their community by touching lives in a proactive and positive way. They provide a trusting, loving, open environment for their team to earn a living and make an impact on their community.”

Real estate professionals who care about their community and care about building great lives for themselves and their clients choose Capstone Title for their closing partner. The Capstone Title team is committed to working hard and building and maintaining strong relationships, because transactions are much more than just deals, they are comprised of individuals, deserving of genuine courtesy, care and respect.

Capstone Title is owned by Brad Compere, an Austin real estate attorney and Managing Partner of Compere & Gorman, PLLC, a Texas Real Estate Law Firm. Capstone Title has developed lasting relationships with three of the largest, strongest national underwriters, Fidelity National Title Group, Stewart Title Guaranty Company, and Old Republic National Title Insurance Company. Working with multiple underwriters gives Capstone Title the ability to work on all transactions and the ability to get deals done.
